Course Description

This course is devoted to careful examination and evaluation of the main philosophical positions advocated and defended by Socrates and Plato, as they appear in Plato's dialogues. Topics to be covered include: Socrates' theory of definition; Socrates' acceptance, and Plato's denial, of (i) hedonism [the thesis that the good is pleasure], (ii) the impossibility of weakness-of-will, and (iii) moral intellectualism [the thesis that virtue is a kind of knowledge]; Socrates' and Plato's (rather different) defenses of the claim that virtue (justice in particular) is sufficient for happiness; the paradox of inquiry, the doctrine of recollection, and Plato's arguments for the immortality of the soul; and Plato's theory of forms, his theory of knowledge, and the emendations to those theories forced upon him by considerations raised in the Parmenides and Theaetetus. Prerequisites: Upper-division status; at least one philosophy course recommended.

Course Text

Cooper, John M., ed. 1997. Plato: Complete Works. Hackett Publishing Company.

This book is available for purchase in the UCSD campus bookstore, and has been placed on course reserve in Geisel Library. You need to bring this book with you to every lecture.

Friday, December 15: FINAL EXAMINATION (8:00am-11:00am)

Course Requirements

*	Ten Quizzes	10%
*	First Paper (~1200 words)	20%	due October 16
*	Second Paper (~2200 words)	30%	due November 20
*	Final Examination	40%	December 15

No early or late final examination will be given for this course, except in cases of medical or family emergency, or disability accommodation. If your finals week plans conflict with taking the final examination at the scheduled time, then please do not register for this course.

Attendance at every lecture and doing the required reading (including any handouts) ahead of each lecture are absolutely critical. As insurance against missing a lecture (for whatever reason), please arrange (ahead of time) to borrow notes from someone else in the course.

There will be no make-up quizzes. The lowest two grades on the ten quizzes will be automatically dropped, and your quiz grade will be calculated from the eight remaining quizzes.

Paper extensions will only be given to those who present evidence indicative of a valid excuse in a timely manner. [Note that computer or printer failure does not usually constitute a valid excuse.] If at any time you believe you have a legitimate claim to an extension, bring it to my attention as soon as possible (e.g., if you are going to be out of town for a legitimate purpose, such as a university-sponsored concert performance, athletic event, conference, or the equivalent). Unexcused late papers will receive a grade of F.

If you need to make an appointment to see me outside of office hours, please do so by contacting me by email with at least several days' notice.

Additional Notes

* If accommodations are needed for a disability or for religious reasons, please discuss the matter with me as soon as possible.

* The academic honor code must be observed in this course. Any student who cheats or plagiarizes (even a little bit) will receive an automatic F for the course and will be referred to the Academic Integrity Coordinator for disciplinary proceedings that may lead to suspension or expulsion. For a definition of plagiarism, please consult the UCSD library website:
